Ongoing Research Support

1 R10 MH58915-01A1 Craske (PI)

07/01/99 – 06/30/04

NIMH

Improving care for panic disorder in primary care

The major goals of this project are to identify and treatment panic disorder in the primary care setting, and to evaluate outcomes in terms of symptoms, quality of life, and health and economic costs.

Role: PI

1 R03 MH64815-01 Craske (PI)

08/01/02 – 07/31/04

NIMH

Markers of risk for anxiety disorders

The goals of this project are to evaluate startle reactivity, aversive learning and attentional biases as markers of risk for anxiety disorders in nonsymptomatic youths with and without risk for anxiety disorders, compared to anxiety disordered youths.

Role: PI

1 R01 NR0776801 Naliboff (PI)

07/01/02 – 06/30/07

NIMH

Treatment of fear and pain in irritable bowel syndrome

The goals of this project are to evaluate a fear model of irritable bowel syndrome and the efficacy of a treatment based on this model in comparison to standard cognitive behavioral therapy for stress management.

Role: co-PI

1 R01 MH65651-01 Craske (PI)

07/01/02 – 07/31/07

NIMH

Common and Specific Risk Factors for Emotional Disorders

The goals of this project are to assess personality, physiological and cognitive variables that may place high school seniors at risk for anxiety and depression, as assessed longitudinally over a period of four years.
